

Gretchen Holloway

Gretchen Holloway is a senior financial executive with over 21 years of experience including a broad set of financial roles at energy companies to support their growth and expansion. Gretchen's career reflects a focus on developing a solid foundation of financial experience and expertise in supporting transformative company initiatives, applying best practices across finance and accounting, and executing M&A transactions across the deal lifecycle. She also brings corporate governance experience through her work with corporate boards, including audit and finance committees, and is qualified to serve on audit committees as a financial expert.

Gretchen is the Senior Vice President and CFO of ITC Holdings Corp., the largest independent transmission company in the country, with over $1B in revenues. Gretchen has played a key role in executing and supporting ITC's objectives under the various ownership structures which have ranged from a privately held company under financial sponsors, a publicly traded company on the NYSE and a subsidiary of a publicly traded company under Fortis Inc. ownership. She has been significantly involved in executing ITC's initial public offering, two transformative acquisitions for ITC, and the sale of ITC to Fortis Inc. in 2016 for approximately $11B.

During her tenure at ITC, Gretchen has held key roles across the finance organization including financial planning & analysis, corporate development, investor relations, enterprise risk management and treasury. She brings a comprehensive approach and strategy in supporting company goals and initiatives. She also has significant experience in managing relationships with shareholders and shareholder communications.

Gretchen also held various financial roles at CMS Energy, a $12B publicly traded energy company, to support domestic and international projects and started her career in public accounting at Arthur Andersen where she spent three years with increasing responsibility across a variety of sectors.

She is a member of the Finance & Audit Committee for the Children's Hospital Foundation of Michigan.

Gretchen received both her bachelors of business administration from Western University with a focus in Finance.