

Resources for Standing in Alliance with Communities & Women of Color

Books
Arc of Justice		Arc of Justice follows the unexpected journey of Ossian Sweet, a doctor-grandson of a slave who bought a house in an all-white Detroit neighborhood in 1925 and was soon-after met by a mob.
Becoming		Published in 2018, Becoming is former First Lady Michelle Obama's memoir about her life, in addition to her time in the White House.
Benign Bigotry: The Psychology of Subtle Prejudice		In this book, author Kristin J. Anderson discusses microaggressions and other subtle prejudices. She explains effect these seemingly small thoughts can have on society as a whole.
This Book is Anti-Racist		This Book is Anti-Racist not only explains the root of racism in America, it also equips readers with the tools and language to combat racism they encounter in day-to-day life.

Resources for Standing in Alliance with Communities & Women of Color

The Color of Law: A Forgotten History of How Our Government Segregated America		The Color of Law accessibly illustrates the ways in which federal, state, and local governments built and reinforced neighborhood segregation.
Crusade for Justice: The Autobiography of Ida B. Wells		Memoir of Ida B. Wells's private and public life as an activist, journalist, teacher, and mother.
Disrupting White Supremacy from Within		Resource for white individuals who wish to do something about racism, but are not quite sure what.
The Emperor has No Clothes: Teaching about Race and Racism to People Who Don't Want to Know		This book teaches readers how to educate others on race and racism, using both theory and practical application.

Resources for Standing in Alliance with Communities & Women of Color

Feeling White: Whiteness, Emotionality, and Education		Feeling White encourages white individuals to fully process their emotions associated with their whiteness, emphasizing that this is an important step in committing to racial equity.
How to be an Antiracist		In this book, readers learn the ways in which antiracism is a transformative idea that changes the ways we talk about race – and think about one another.
Invisible No More: Police Violence Against Black Women and Women of Color		Invisible No More is a research-based book that looks at specifically at police violence against Black women, women of color, transgender women and others.
Me and White Supremacy: Combat Racism, Change the World and Become a Good Ancestor		This New York Times and USA Today bestseller offers readers a step-by-step guide for combatting unconscious bias and racism at the individual level.
The New Jim Crow: Mass Incarceration in the Age of Colorblindness		The New Jim Crow illuminates the ways in which mass incarceration ensures a second-class status for millions of African Americans and urges readers to prioritize mass incarceration when advocating for social justice.

Resources for Standing in Alliance with Communities & Women of Color

Origins of the Urban Crisis: Race and Inequality in Postwar Detroit		This book examines how and why Detroit – and other previously prosperous industrial cities – fell into urban crisis.
So You Want to Talk About Race		With the goal of providing readers with the language to make honest conversations about race and racism possible, So You Want To Talk About Race provides background on a large range of race-related topics.
Waking Up White, and Finding Myself in the Story of Race		In this personal narrative on the ways author Debby Irving was “getting it wrong” when it came to race and racial tensions, Irving reflects on her own unconscious bias, and “cringe-worthy” moments in the hopes of helping others learn more about their own biases.
What Does It Mean to be White?: Developing White Racial Literacy		What Does It Mean to be White? analyzes white socialization and the ways this socialization inhibits many white individuals’ “racial literacy”.
White Fragility: Why Its so Hard for White People to Talk About Racism		“White fragility” refers to the emotions many white people feel when experiencing racial tensions. This book outlines the development of this phenomenon, how white fragility insulates racial inequality, and what to do about it.

Resources for Standing in Alliance with Communities & Women of Color

White Rage: The Unspoken Truth of our Racial Divide		This book examines the ways in which white America has oppressed Black individuals throughout our history.
Why are All the Black Kids Sitting Together in the Cafeteria?: and Other Conversations About Race		This book emphasizes the importance of discussing racial identity for cross-cultural communication.
Why I'm No Longer Talking to White People about Race		In this book, author Reni Eddo-Lodge argues that racism is systematic problem that should be address specifically by white folks.
Witnessing Whiteness		This book uses political, economic, socio-cultural, and legal histories to examine what it means to be white.

Resources for Standing in Alliance with Communities & Women of Color

Articles

A Black Lives Matter Co-Founder Explains Why This Time Is Different		This New Yorker article features writer Isaac Chotiner with co-founder of the Black Lives Matter movement, Opal Tometi.
Dear Companies: Your BLM Posts Are Cute But We Want To See Policy Change		This Forbes article discusses the ways that companies can (and should) instate real change when it comes to supporting the BLM movement.
How to Support Your Black Coworkers Without Adding More Stress During this Incredibly Difficult Time		Authors Walker and Ward explain the dos and don'ts of checking in with your coworkers of color during this difficult time.
How U.S. Companies Can Support Employees of Color Through the Pandemic		Highlighting the ways in which the COVID-19 pandemic has disproportionately affected communities of color, this article provides companies with clear, actionable ways that they can rally around their employees of color.

Resources for Standing in Alliance with Communities & Women of Color

What Companies Can Do to Combat Systemic Racism Against Black Colleagues in the Workplace		In this article, author Sarah Vieux outlines clear actions that companies can take to help fight systemic racism in the workplace.
--	---	---

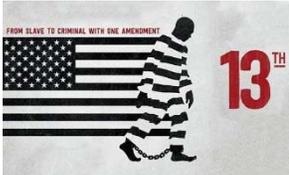

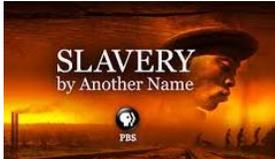

Speech

Ain't I A Woman		Speech delivered by Sojourner Truth in 1851.
--	---	---

Film

Selma		This historical drama is about the Selma to Montgomery Marches for voting rights that took place in 1965.
------------------------------	---	--

Resources for Standing in Alliance with Communities & Women of Color

Documentaries
13th		Named after the 13th amendment, which abolished slavery, “13th” demonstrates how the criminal justice system has subjugated African Americans since the end of the Civil War.
Becoming		“Becoming” is former First Lady Michelle Obama’s documentary-memoir about her life and time in the White House.
Say Her Name: The Life and Death of Sandra Bland		Sandra Bland died in police custody following a routine traffic stop. This documentary examines what happened to the activist while in custody.
Slavery by Another Name		This PBS documentary examines how slavery continued in the United States, even well after the Emancipation Proclamation.
They've Gotta Have Us		“They’ve Gotta Have Us” follows the stories of Black actors in Hollywood.
Whose Streets?		“Whose Streets” is about the 2014 Ferguson Uprising, and the events that led up to it.

Resources for Standing in Alliance with Communities & Women of Color

Quick Videos

Systematic Racism Explained		This video explains the history and functions of systemic racism.
TED Talk: An Interview with the Founders of Black Lives Matter		Patrisse Cullors, Alicia Garza, and Opal Tometi (founders of the #BlackLivesMatter movement) are interviewed in this TED Talk.